My dear Fanning

I expect you will be amazed to get a letter from me, Percy and I are the worlds worst correspondents, I can imagine you saying here, here.

Will you do us the honour of being Godfather to John, Alexander, he was christened last Friday June 16th, and Willie took your place. I expect you would like to know something about John, he is fair, has blue eyes, and is the happiest baby imaginable, with real footballers knees, and very lusty lungs, I think he may be going to sing well.

It has been lonely having your mother over here, and we are going to miss her horribly when she leaves us, her visit has been much to short I wish she could have spent at least a year over here, it has been a great pleasure knowing her.

I expect you have all missed her very much, and will be very glad when she returns.

Percy or Willie as we call him will be going in for the National Gliding Competition next month tell Frank when he arrives, and give Frank my love, I owe him a letter and will send him some snaps of the children, I must send you one of your godson too.

With love from us all
Kear.
